- Digital Civil Revolution as best description of current revolution (not only industrial or technological)
- Disruption is not restricted to markets. It totally transforms media landscape, public opinion, political debate, attitudes and roles of industry and state towards citizens
- The real revolution is that these technologies increase citizen power enormously in opinion production, public debate, collecting information and self-organization
- A special kind of leadership, Civil Leadership, is needed to harness this new civil power

2 main parts:

- I. Strategic Analysis: the cause of the #DigitalCivilRevolution and how is it changing humanity, society, communities and also politics, democracy and public services. Main concepts: battle for the eyeballs, permanent public grandstand, new medialandscape with a new independent selfproducing third channel
- II. The strategic answer is new leadership (special style, attitude, skills): civil leadership
